PhD IN POPULATION HEALTH

REIMBURSEMENT OF THE SOFT-FUNDED RESEARCH BURSARY

The objective is to financially support professors, departments, schools, organizations and research institutes formally associated with the University of Ottawa who hires students in the PhD in Population Health program.

The soft-funded bursary is governed by the University of Ottawa Policy110A.

Funds will be distributed according to the following priorities:

1. students who are recipients of an Admission Scholarship and have agreed to comply with the FGPS conditions;
2. students who are not recipients of the Admission Scholarship but are within the first four years in the program; and
3. under exceptional circumstances other requests will be considered if funds are available.

If you hire a student who holds an Excellence Scholarship (external funding) you are not eligible to receive a reimbursement. It is the responsibility of the professor to verify the financial status of the student.

For a reimbursement, please submit a copy of all contracts to the program office by email at pop@uOttawa.ca no later than February 1.

The program reimburses half of the contract or a maximum of $4,500 per student per fiscal year. Reimbursements will be done by journal entry to the account indicated on the form.

Last updated: March 2014