Dreaming of becoming a professional nurse?

The School of Nursing at the University of Ottawa’s Faculty of Health Sciences values your experience as an Aboriginal person. Your cultural perspective is important to share with the clients, families, groups, communities and peers you encounter during the nursing program and in your career.
Across Canada, First Nations, Métis and Inuit nurses change lives for the better and work to support the health of all Canadians. The School of Nursing at the University of Ottawa's Faculty of Health Sciences invites Aboriginal students to apply to its BScN program. Spots are reserved for people of Aboriginal ancestry, and our Aboriginal Resource Centre (ARC) is here to help you.

Your learning needs will be supported in a manner consistent with Aboriginal culture and values and with help from our Aboriginal Resource Centre (ARC). We offer a network of services and programs designed to give you the tools and information you need to succeed from your first day on campus to the day you receive your degree. For more information on the ARC, visit www.sass.uottawa.ca/aboriginal.

Make your dream a reality
Become a registered nurse
Apply to the uOttawa School of Nursing

For more information on what you need to register, please visit us at www.health.uOttawa/sn/aboriginal

Come live your dream with us.