The Bachelor of Science in Nursing is offered jointly with two Ottawa-area colleges in both official languages. The program seeks to prepare the next generation of nurses to offer high quality nursing care and assume leadership roles within the health care system. It provides a solid theoretical foundation to enable you to engage with clients in activities that promote health, prevent illness and injury, and foster optimal recovery from or adaptation to illness or injury. The Bachelor of Science in Nursing can be completed through the following paths:

- uOttawa program
- collaborative program with Algonquin College or La Cité
- second entry program
- bridging program for internationally educated nurses
- bridging program for registered practical nurses
