From the Vice-Dean’s Corner:

This autumn is a very busy time for our research office. In addition to the usual flow of Tri-Council and other research applications, the FHS is working on its new strategic plan. We are working closely with the FHS Research Committee, the Shared Research Platform Representatives (RPR) Working Group, and School Directors to determine the criteria that should be used for selecting priorities for research in our new plan. These criteria will help us decide what elements of our current plan should be carried forward and what should be new priorities for our plan. Each School has a representative on the Research Committee and multiple representatives on the RPR. You are encouraged to contact your reps if you have any questions about this planning process.

On another note, every day we are exposed to a lot of research-related news. In our Faculty of Health Sciences Research Newsletter, we want to give you the kinds of news that are most important, interesting, and helpful for that month. We need your help to do it right. Typically, we report news within the following categories: (1) funding opportunities (external and internal); (2) faculty success with peer-reviewed grants and prizes; (3) information for graduate student and post-doctoral trainees; (4) hot topics (e.g. predatory journals); (5) significant news about the services and strategic initiatives of the FHS Research Office. We want you to tell us if we are getting the right balance of news in these categories. Are we missing any categories that are important to you? Are we presenting the information in each category in a way that is most helpful to you? Does our news overlap too much with other news sources that you use? We will send an email survey in the next few weeks to collect your responses.

Best wishes, Jeff
