RESEARCH RESOURCES

Publishing in predatory journals – why should you care?

Predatory journals have become very common, but beware of the attraction for quick publication. Publishing in a predatory journal impedes dissemination and impact of your research and can have serious consequences for your reputation and credibility, as well as that of the University.

To learn more, please consult the following resources:

uOttawa Library - Scholarly Communication

If interested in attending a workshop on Predatory Journals, or have suggestions for other research-related sessions, please send us an email (fssrecherche@uottawa.ca); we will be happy to facilitate.
